

RESTRICTED ACCESS

Meeting Room Rules for Use

General

The District does not assume liability for personal injuries, nor does it assume liability for damage or theft of personal property which occur as a result of the actions of the sponsors or participants in meetings scheduled in District facilities.

Reservations of meeting rooms may be made no more than 90 days in advance and no less than 72 hours in advance. (Meetings with less than 72 hours notice may still be held under the Drop-Ins provision of the Meeting Room Use Policy). You may cancel your reservation by contacting library staff. If no one from your group arrives within 15 minutes of your scheduled reservation start time, your reservation will be considered forfeited.

Meeting room attendance is limited based on gathering type (see information under Restricted Access below). A responsible adult must be present at any event in a library meeting room.

Please avoid parking directly in front of G Street restaurants where possible. Customers mistakenly believe they are full and drive on.

Restricted Access Requirements

General meeting room requirements and responsibilities have been modified to meet public health recommendations. Specifically, meeting organizers must abide by the Oregon Health Authority's Statewide Reopening Guidance - Gatherings, Indoor Social Get-Togethers. For the Main Library Meeting Room, maximum attendance is limited as follows:

- Gatherings, a group of individuals meeting for a common purpose including faith-based, civic, cultural and other purposes, indoors or outdoors, are limited in attendance to 25.
- Indoor social get-togethers, a group of individuals meeting for a common social or recreational purpose indoors such as parties or celebrations of any kind, potlucks, book clubs, game nights, etc., are limited in attendance to 10.

Library staff will provide the currently available Guidance, and meeting organizers must be prepared to meet the guidance, which includes wearing of masks during the event, maintaining physical distancing, and thorough cleaning after the event has ended. Library staff will make cleaning supplies available.

Publicity

Events or meetings will not be publicized in a manner suggesting library sponsorship, co-sponsorship, approval, or affiliation, unless written permission was previously given by the Library Director. The Library's name, address, email, or phone number may not be used as the contact information for any meeting except that which is sponsored by the District or affiliate groups. Clear advertisement of location is acceptable.

Set Up and Take Down

You are responsible for setting up the room according to your needs and leaving the room and all furnishings and equipment clean and in good condition, as well as completing the necessary thorough cleaning between events. Attached is a diagram of how furniture should be set up at the end of your meeting. Extra furnishings are available in the equipment closet to the left of the sink.

If you are borrowing library technology or equipment, schedule a time with library staff in advance of your meeting to ensure you know how to operate the equipment.

Meeting Room users may put up directional signs slightly before and during the event to direct people. Library staff may remove the signs if they interfere with library operations or imply library sponsorship. Please remove such signs promptly after the event is over.

Please ask library staff before attaching materials to walls, windows, doors, or furnishings. We have or can recommend special adhesives that remove easily. Activities the Library Director determines would adversely impact the facility or furnishings will not be allowed.

If the trash can is full at the end of your meeting, please remove and dispose of it in the trash container outside on the west side of the building. There should be clean bags in the bottom of the trash can so you can leave a fresh bag.

Brooms and dustpan are available in the equipment closet for cleaning the meeting room floors.

Food and Drink

Due to public health restrictions, food is not currently allowed in the meeting room. Non-alcoholic beverages in individual containers with lids and straws or other small openings are allowed throughout the library.

Copyright

Unauthorized reproduction or public display of any copyrighted material in the meeting rooms is prohibited unless it is covered by a public performance license for the Library or your organization, or a written waiver of the applicable rights has first been obtained.

Meeting Room Checklist

Before the meeting:

- If using technology, set up training with library staff.
- Ask attendees to leave parking in front of G Street restaurants open for restaurant customers.
- Arrive within 15 minutes of reservation time.
- For before/after-hours meeting, check the room temperature setting and, if needed, adjust using directions posted at thermostat.
- Set up the room according to my needs. Extra furniture is in the equipment closet to the left of the sink. Ask library staff if you need to attach anything to the walls.
- Post directional signs to the room if needed.

During the meeting:

- Only covered drinks are allowed.

After the meeting:

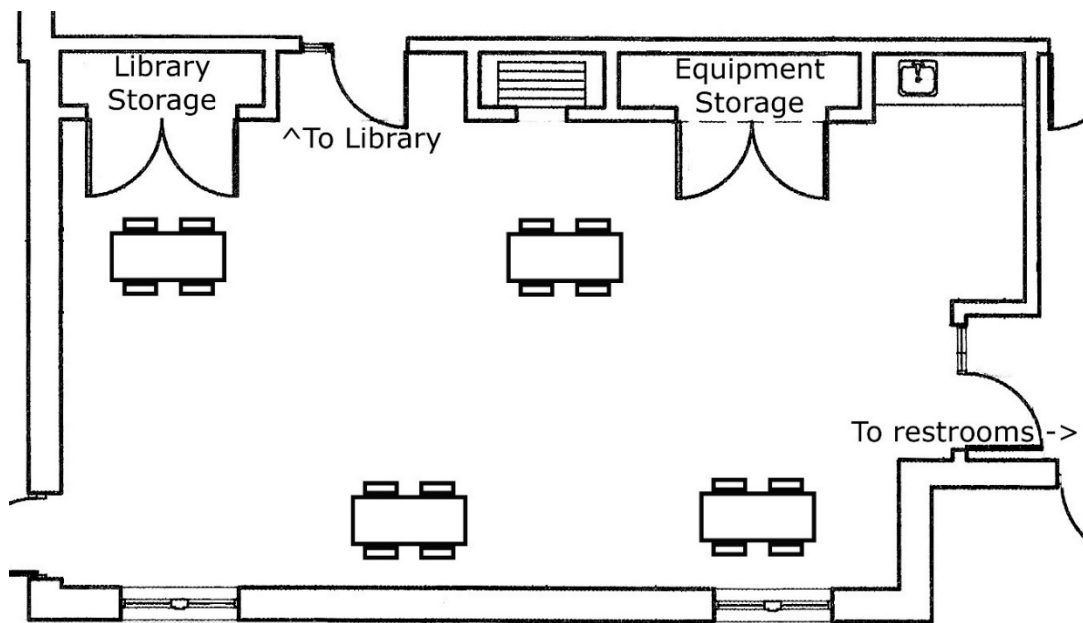

- Using disinfectant and rags provided by the library, thoroughly clean the following:
 - All chairs used or touched by meeting attendees and organizers, including the back, seat, and rails
 - All tables used or touched by meeting attendees and organizers, including all places tables are touched during set up and take down
 - Sink, handles, countertop, and soap dispenser from the meeting room counter
 - Cabinet and drawer handles above and below meeting room counter
 - Door handles and crash bars, inside and outside of all meeting room and restroom doors.
- Set up the room according to the diagram on the back of this page, putting away extra equipment used in the equipment closet. Make sure equipment is cleaned before storing in closet.
- Sweep the floors of dirt, trash, etc., as needed.
- Empty trash if used. Dispose of your bags in the outside garbage container on the West side of the library. Fresh bags should be located inside the bottom of the trash can.
- Remove any directional signs.
- If you changed the thermostat, set to 'follow schedule.'

- Place dirty rags in bucket and return bucket and cleaning supplies to library staff. If meeting was after hours, leave bucket and cleaning supplies on counter next to meeting room sink.
- Let library staff know if you had any problems.

Thank you for your cooperation!

Please leave any feedback about the space or our process or the room below and turn in to library staff:
